Dear Sir/ Madam

We believe there is a proposal to build an emergency parachute platform on the tops of the tallest buildings in the city.

We understand the need to reassure the occupants of tall buildings that all possible safety measures are in place. However, we have been conducting a number of experiments and we have collected evidence that indicates that such safety arrangements would need very careful regulation to be effective. Our experiments were designed to investigate the safe arrival of fragile objects from a height. We have included our evidence for your consideration
